

Pages: We could have pages listed and then after the tabs for those are listed, we could also include the logos for our social media pages with the links embedded in them

Main page

- This page will introduce the club. Not sure what else could be introduced here. I guess we'll look into that later.
- Allow people to sign-up easily. (possibly by sign-up button)

About us - SARAH

- We could get the members pictures here and discuss the roles they do and also the languages they know. Maybe a little bit more info about their language journey.
- Ask members for photos and description.

Events page/Schedule page

- We could make some kind of schedule on this page for all of our events and maybe we could include our little social media posts, depending on how the clubs works with their events.

Resources page

- This is where members can share resources they have for learning language like the one in discord.

Contact Us

- We could have our e-mail there and people could contact us there with any issues they have or any bugs.

Join Us - KEISEI - incorporate 'join us' and 'contact us'.

Sign up page

- We could include the form here for when students want to sign up and join the club. Take the google forms and put it in the page.

Blog page - SARAH

- Will include stuff such as the rules for what we require in the blog and the submitting page as well.
- This is where the students can submit a post that could be included in the blog. We will have the rules there as well for what can and can't be posted. And before the post is posted on the blog, it must be approved first by one of us.
- Rules
 - Here we can post the rules about treating everyone with respect, so no racism, harassment, etc..
- This page acts like a blog where members can share things about their target language or their culture. Maybe they ate some new food and wanted to share with us where it's from and maybe the person could write about it in their target language and english? We could probably talk more about that to see what would be the best.

Ideas for the designs

- Maybe we could make the main page one of those pages where the page itself is just a background picture of our logo.

- Something like this: <https://www.wix.com/website-template/view/html/1920>
- by Keisei, I think a page with header menus is nice and easy to access from laptop & big screen devices. For small screen devices, better to use a tab bar maybe.
 - <https://buritsu.com/>
- This website has bunch of blogs by several writers. In the near future, we can just put these latest blogs in the main page.
- For the blogs, we could create tags for each post like French, English, so that if people are searching for posts that are specific to a language they are learning, they will easily be able to find it.
- Use bootstrap ?? Sarah will try by herself.

- everyone works on their own branch.
- try to not add a bunch of css classes. Stay simple.

Long-term goals:

- Make the website in different languages eventually (French, Japanese, etc)
- need to decide how to switch languages.. (there are several ways to do so)
